The Communications Office produced the 2011-2012 Annual Report.
“Experts have declared that by 2040, the U. S. will no longer have a racial/ethnic majority. Still, as our houses of worship bear witness to every weekend, Saturdays and Sundays remain the most religiously and racially segregated days of the week. At McCormick Theological Seminary, we already are learning and living in a community that experiences the rich and engaging diversity that makes up the body of Christ. As Paul says, “Now you are the body of Christ and individually members of it.” (1 Corinthians 12:27). By being an institution of higher learning that is Cross-cultural, Urban, Reformed, and Ecumenical, we are striving for a future church that lives by the motto: Difference. Building. Connection. We believe we have caught a glimpse of the Church’s future in the heart of this City of Big Shoulders.”

Rev. Dr. Frank M. Yamada

President

McCormick Theological Seminary
Greetings from the McCormick Community!

It is my privilege to share with you our 2011-2012 annual report which we have titled, Leading Change: Embracing 2040.

Now, some of you may be asking: “2040? Why 2040?” 2040 is the year that demographers have declared the United States of America will no longer have a “majority” population. For those of you who know and love McCormick Theological Seminary, the concept of not having a majority population in this country is not difficult to grasp. In many respects, we’ve been “living in the future” for some time. We have not had a majority ethnic or racial (or even denominational) majority among our student body for several years. But building community, our McCormick community, is about so much more than statistics or numbers on a page. Numbers do, of course matter—after all, what’s an annual report without numbers. But numbers alone could never fully depict the texture of either our 182-year history or the history we made during this past year.

The 2011-2012 academic year was, indeed, historic. In May 2011, the Board announced the appointment of Rev. Dr. Frank M. Yamada as McCormick’s tenth president, succeeding Rev. Dr. Cynthia M. Campbell, who retired after 16 years of faithful service. In the context of 2040, the appointment and service of both Cynthia and Frank are historic: Cynthia being the first woman president of a Presbyterian seminary; Frank being the first Asian-American president of a Presbyterian seminary. McCormick has always embraced change, and always embraced the future.

For several years, our masters-level student population has become increasingly local, bi-vocational, older, and part-time. And with those changes, our need for residential facilities has begun to decline. Coupled with other technology-related changes in theological and higher education, we believe that trend will continue. Consequently, in October 2011, we sold and leased-back for a period of three years, our Kimbark residential facility. The bulk of the proceeds from that sale allowed us to pay down $1.9 million of our Series A tax-exempt debt. The sale also eliminates more than $200,000 in anticipated capital expenditures planned for that building over the next few years.

On the financial front, despite a year that saw incredible market volatility, our endowment has grown. As of June 30, 2012, our invested funds totaled $75.3 million. On the operating side, we posted total adjusted expenses of $8.162 million, well below budget. That said, McCormick faces the same macro-economic challenges confronting other seminaries.
and graduate schools. Continued good stewardship of expenses, and development of sustainable sources of revenue have been, and will continue to be the focus of the Board of Trustees in the year ahead.

So, 2011-12 has been a year of celebration, as well as a year of change and transition. We welcomed Dr. Reggie Williams as our new Associate Professor of Christian Ethics. Dr. Williams most recently taught ethics at Baylor University and we are extremely grateful that he accepted the call to McCormick. It was also a time for saying good-bye to Marsha Lockwood who was, for so many of us, the face and voice of McCormick. Marsha served as Executive Administrative Assistant to Dr. Campbell for nearly 16 years, and agreed to put off her well-deserved retirement to serve in the same capacity for Dr. Yamada through his first year.

As I noted above, numbers are important, but are just part of the story. In the pages that follow, we will share with you the many faces of McCormick: our students, those who serve and teach our students, and the faces of those whose lives are touched and transformed by our global McCormick community. Welcome to 2040. Welcome to McCormick.

With Gratitude and Thanks to God,

Grace and peace to all of you in the name of the Lord.

The theme of this year’s annual report is Leading Change: Embracing 2040.

For those of you who attended the inaugural festivities in February 2012, you will remember that the theme of the events was The View from 2040: the Futures of Theological Education. In my inaugural address, I explained that 2040 is the year by which most census experts believe we will no longer have a racial/ethnic majority in the United States. At McCormick Theological Seminary, the good news is that we are already there and have been for many years.

At a recent gathering of new presidents within the Association of Theological Schools, Barbara Wheeler, considered by most a leader at the forefront on research of theological education, said that racial/ethnic, and I would add theological diversity, continues to be the growing edge for ATS schools. She noted, however, that some schools are already delivering quality seminary education among diverse populations, and that McCormick was one of those leaders.

I also signaled in my address that the multiple futures of theological education heading toward 2040 provide us with an exciting pathway to change for McCormick’s future. We have an opportunity to live into our historical mission for theological education in new and fresh ways, heeding the vision that God has already cast in front of us.

I noted three major themes around which we can focus:

Moving beyond diversity...The future approaching 2040 will indeed be marked by radical diversity. However, diversity itself will not be the goal, it will be a reality. What do we do with this diversity? I believe that we must continue to train leaders for the church and society in environments where they are formed not only through their own culture and religious tradition but where the value of difference shapes and forms them. In a society that has become increasingly polarized and intolerant, we need religious leaders who are well-trained, educated, and who know how to learn and engage with others who differ from them.

To this end, we are working very intentionally to recruit faculty and students who reflect this diversity and who embrace these values so that we can continue to influence the future of what our church and society will be. We welcomed Dr. Reggie Williams to our faculty at the beginning of this academic year for 2012–13. This year, we are also thrilled to have two extern faculty members from Vanderbilt Divinity School, who chose McCormick because of the uniquely diverse environment that it provides for their teaching formation.
The second theme, technology and innovation, signals the ways in which higher education, in general, is shifting right before our eyes. The Internet and digital technologies are revolutionizing the way that education is delivered in the U.S. Trending topics include MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses), Khan Academy’s “flipping” of the classroom through online video lectures, and various types of hybrid distance learning models. It is truly an exciting time to be in education.

At McCormick we launched our first fully online courses in 2011–12, and we anticipate rolling out more in the coming years. Distance learning models provide today’s students—increasingly local and part-time—with more flexible options for course scheduling in today’s demanding economy and time-constrained environments. Our challenge and opportunity at MTS will be to take our cross-cultural and ecumenical model and adapt it to the exciting possibilities that technology affords us.

Finally, I named the major generational shift that is confronting our society and culture. A new generation of millennials is already leading across many of our major industries and social sectors. I believe these young adults are poised to help lead our congregations and communities into exciting new futures. These folks are very spiritual in their orientation but have not always been involved in institutional forms of religion. Education remains a high value. This is one of the reasons that at McCormick we are already in the process of developing more flexible degree options. While we continue to offer degrees directed primarily for the preparation and development of professional clergy (M.Div. and D.Min.), we have offered and are in the process of developing certificates and degrees for leaders whose ministries intersect the world and society in different ways, not exclusively at the table or in the pulpit.

This vision for theological education goes beyond a specific age group. We are finding that increasingly leaders in congregations and communities are seeing the value of formation through theological education. In an age where many churches cannot afford to have a full-time paid pastor, lay leaders have sought to deepen their own spiritual maturity and knowledge base. In this way, as a Presbyterian seminary, McCormick has an opportunity to educate and train leaders in a way that is consistent with a core Reformed principle, the priesthood of all believers. The age of the isolated expert is giving way to a model where theological education is and should be for everyone. In the church and the marketplace, in schools and the streets, theological education can continue to play a significant role toward a more peaceful and just world.

It is an exciting time to be connected to McCormick Theological Seminary. We hope that the pages of this annual report give you a glimpse of the ways in which we are leading change as we embrace 2040.

Peace and grace,

McCormick is a community of learning and teaching, challenged by the Holy Spirit and grounded in God’s transforming love for the world in Jesus Christ. We are called to nurture the gifts of women and men for faithful Christian ministry and leadership through rigorous academic study, practical experience and spiritual formation.

A seminary by the Presbyterian Church (USA) since 1829 and a progressive leader within the Reformed tradition, we are committed to institutional life, scholarship and ministry that are ecumenical, urban and cross-cultural.

McCormick Theological Seminary is accredited by the Commission on Accrediting of the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada. The following degree programs are approved: Master of Theological Studies, Master of Divinity, Master of Arts in Urban Ministry, Master of Arts in Discipleship Development, Doctor of Ministry, Master of Theology.
Our distinguished full-time faculty of fourteen members work in the four fields of study: Bible, History, Theology/Ethics and Ministry. They could work anywhere in the Midwest, United States or in the world, but they choose McCormick where our core values – cross-cultural, urban, Reformed, and ecumenical – shape the curriculum, worship, and institutional life of the Seminary.

First and foremost, the faculty is dedicated to helping students prepare for a life of ministry and service in a complex, changing and uncertain world. In addition to their work at McCormick, faculty members are active in their academic fields through publishing and professional societies and in the life of the Church—locally, nationally and internationally.

Conducting a Curriculum Review
The McCormick faculty is committed to producing a new curriculum that is pertinent and responsive to major challenges and opportunities in contemporary ministry. During the 2011-2012 school year, the faculty concluded the first year of a two-year curriculum review process. The focus for this year was to receive input on the state of theological education from numerous publics. Key groups were invited to participate in structured conversations including the Board of Trustees, executives from different denominations, judicatory leaders, alumni, staff, students and community leaders. It was, and continues to be imperative that we listen and respond to the interests, needs, concerns and recommendations of our stakeholders.

Selection of a New Faculty Member
Dr. Reggie Williams is the new assistant professor of Christian Ethics. He is a strong emerging scholar and teacher who will cover the curricular need for required and elective courses in ethics. Dr. Williams is a specialist in the ethical thought of Dietrich Bonheoffer and Martin Luther King, Jr. He received his Ph.D. from Fuller Theological Seminary.

The scholarship and teaching of Dr. Williams makes it possible to provide courses that will contribute to the moral formation of religious leaders who are competent to develop ministries of care, compassion and justice in the church and the world.
Finally, the increased presence of younger people of color on the faculty maintains McCormick’s commitment to diversity and positions it for the generational shift that will take place during the next seven years.

Reorganization of Academic Affairs

McCormick is purposely becoming a smaller, agile, innovative and resourceful organization that can fulfill its mission and deliver its programs and services with academic, managerial, and fiscal integrity and accountability.

The faculty and the Dean have been intentionally reorganizing the structure of Academic Affairs; two positions have been eliminated and three other staff positions have been redefined. These changes will contribute to streamlined organizational structures and cost while keeping in place functions and resources to support core programs and services.

The most beautiful and the warmest quilts are made up of a wide variety of fabrics, patterns and colors. It can take months, sometimes years, to make the perfect one. Like a beautiful and colorful quilt, the McCormick community is made up of people who represent a rainbow of colors, interests, backgrounds and age groups. The powerful golden thread that runs among them is Jesus Christ.

McCormick is a diverse community of students, families, faculty, and staff living together, working together and learning from one another. Recognizing that we are all students and teachers, the community values shared experiences in the classroom, during worship, and over meals. In 2011-2012, the student body included 143 Master’s level students and 83 Doctorate of Ministry students.

Featured in the immediate pages that follow are profiles of members of the McCormick community. Included are a board member, a donor, Master’s level students and alumni from both Master’s Level and Doctorate of Ministry programs. In each profile you will read about what these individuals are doing to make the world a better place and to move us forward to 2040.
"I truly believe in the unity of the church as the body of Christ and that in spite of all differences and preferences, we can be together to think and produce a more practical and applicable theology." With those words, Vimary Couvertier-Cruz demonstrates that she had caught the CURE (Cross Cultural, Urban, Reformed and Ecumenical) long before she came to McCormick. Raised in Puerto Rico, her maternal grandfather was a pioneer and Pentecostal pastor in Viques, a conflicted area, and he instilled in Vima a love of God, the church and ministerial service. A member of the Assemblies of God, she served as a youth leader and Minister for that denomination for more than 13 years. She matriculated at McCormick as a dual degree student (MDiv/MSW) in August 2011, with a point of view that was already, in her words, "open, inclusive, feminist, ecumenical and respectful toward God, the Bible, the Church and its missions and other faiths."

Her first-year experience has been life altering in the best possible way. Vima said that it has opened new doors and "unexpected opportunities for learning and ministering with others, both inside and outside my Latina/Hispanic context." She continued, "With each experience I have gained different perspectives for theological and academic reflection, for vocational application, for personal growth and development."

This summer Vima participated in the Hispanic Summer Program, held in Puerto Rico. She found it enriching to take an intensive class in her native language and meet and share with other Latin@ students and scholars. In the coming year, she plans to travel to Colombia as a participant in the Colombia Accompaniment Program of the Presbyterian Peace Fellowship. She will also serve as the new moderator of McCormick's international students' Global Community organization.

Vima is proud of her Puerto Rican heritage and feels blessed to have been able to share the stories and struggles of her people, as well as their gift of hospitality within the McCormick community. She says that McCormick has provided far more than just an academic year of growth; it has given her a "wholesome integrative experience" that will stay with her throughout her ministerial journey, one that she hopes will ultimately lead to doctoral work in Women's Spirituality and Feminist Liberation Theology.

Vimary Couvertier-Cruz, Master of Divinity/Master of Social Work Student

"With each experience I have gained different perspectives for theological and academic reflection, for vocational application, for personal growth and development."
“The demands of the academy have been challenging, yet intellectually rewarding...I believe that I have grown spiritually and further discerned my vocation and calling.”

Victor Johnson, Jr., Master of Divinity Student

Victor Johnson was introduced to God at birth; his maternal grandmother was influential in his spiritual formation. The Holy Scriptures were part of his developing awareness and he clearly remembers being dedicated as an acolyte to the Altar Guild. He now appreciates more fully the understanding of God, the Sacraments, prayer and meditation that he was able to cultivate in this role.

A graduate of Columbia College in Chicago with a degree in Music Business Management, Victor is a member of the United Church of Christ. He is an accomplished musician who plays both drums and the organ. He has served as both church organist and Minister of Music and feels privileged to have shared his gifts in a number of denominations. Victor says that music has helped him discover God in a way that is both “vast and personal.” He currently serves as an organist at Covenant United Church of Christ in South Holland, Illinois. He says his minister, Rev. Ozzie Smith, has served as a mentor and great friend.

Licensed as a minister in 1995 and ordained in 1997, Victor says that he began to examine his life’s purpose more seriously after his grandfather’s death. He sensed a strong desire to pursue theological education and transition into full-time ministry. Victor describes the first-year experiences at McCormick as enriching. “The demands of the academy have been challenging, yet intellectually rewarding,” he says, “I believe that I have grown spiritually and further discerned my vocation and calling. The collective energy from the faculty, staff and students has propelled me to new heights and I can fully appreciate the importance of seminary training and the difference a trained minister can make in the world and in his or her faith family.”
When the Rev. Kevin George applied to McCormick’s Doctor of Ministry program in 2009, he was an experienced pastor in a growing church who had an itch, he said, “for some renewal.” The Rev. Youngsoo An had arrived at McCormick the year before, in his own words, “f.o.b.—fresh off the boat,” a new pastor in a new place seeking the basics of language, culture, and practice.

“Each trip [to McCormick] has brought me into communion with a diversity of God’s people and by the very nature of those encounters, these trips have brought me closer to God.”

“When I began (at McCormick), I was customized only to South Korean culture. Now I have gained the cultural aspects of both.”

Rev. Dr. Kevin George and Rev. Dr. Youngsoo An, Doctorate of Ministry Graduates

When the Rev. Kevin George applied to McCormick’s Doctor of Ministry program in 2009, he was an experienced pastor in a growing church who had an itch, he said, “for some renewal.” The Rev. Youngsoo An had arrived at McCormick the year before, in his own words, “f.o.b.—fresh off the boat,” a new pastor in a new place seeking the basics of language, culture, and practice.
That Kevin George and Youngsoo An both crossed international borders to enter McCormick’s Doctorate of Ministry program -- Kevin from an Anglican parish in southwestern Ontario and Youngsoo from a Presbyterian congregation in South Korea via a new place of ministry in Chicago – may have been the only things they had in common. What they discovered once they arrived however, was how colleagues with deeply different experiences, contexts, and cultures could enrich each other’s ministries.

“Each trip [to McCormick] has brought me into communion with a diversity of God’s people and by the very nature of those encounters, these trips have brought me closer to God,” explained Kevin.

“When I began [at McCormick], I was customized only to South Korean culture. Now I have gained the cultural aspects of both,” said Youngsoo of his experience at McCormick.

Today, Youngsoo An is associate pastor at First Presbyterian Church in Fort Wayne, Indiana. An historic, nearly two-hundred-year-old congregation in an aging rust-belt city, First Presbyterian is attempting a future-oriented ministry: one congregation, but two languages; one pastoral staff, but unique priorities; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, where sixth-generation Fort Wayne Presbyterians are interacting with Korean immigrants, and in doing so, creating a home and family for both. And while Youngsoo provides primary leadership for the Korean-language also service, he is also a regular liturgist for one of the English-language services and participates fully with his pastoral colleagues (which includes McCormick MDiv graduate Arianne Lehn and her husband Jeffrey) in the care of all members.

At St. Aidan Parish in London, Ontario, where jazz-by-the-bog has become a tradition, Canon Kevin George is their brand-new rector. After thirteen years of serving St. Mark’s-by-the-Lake near Windsor, Ontario, including the entire time of his DMin studies, Kevin has just answered a call to this new place of ministry. He left St. Mark’s with these words, from a hymn he wrote (you can find this, among other inspiring thoughts, on the blog Kevin writes):

*God’s love is rich, is deep, is wide
God’s love is for all humankind
God seeks the lost, God holds the weak
God calls the mighty to be meek.*

Singing those words is consistent with the remarkable DMin thesis Kevin wrote—one in which he tested and affirmed the belief that we can indeed grow deeper in our own Christian faith when we intentionally seek out and enter into dialog with those of other faiths. In Canada, the most pluralistic country on the planet according to the Atlas of World Christianity, Kevin’s work points the church toward a very real place of renewal and impact.

These two pastors came to McCormick’s DMin program seemingly with little in common. But in McCormick’s cross-cultural learning communities, where students and faculty work with and learn from each other, they found themselves not simply classmates, but innovators, together envisioning and building the spiritually-vibrant, culturally-relevant church of the future. That’s McCormick’s DMin program today—pointed toward the church of tomorrow.
Rev. Tricia Dykers-Koenig has worked on behalf of people of color, the poor, and those who need warm, safe and affordable housing. For the past 20 years, Tricia has worked on behalf of the gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) community. More recently, she has worked to open the door for the ordination of gay and lesbian individuals, through successfully organizing a change in the language and stance of the Constitution of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), allowing for the ordination of GLBT persons called to ministry.

Tricia has worked to broaden support for a more inclusive vision and practice within the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). She has served the presbytery in numerous leadership capacities throughout the Church, including: Moderator of the Presbytery, Moderator of the Committee on Nominations, member of the Committee on Ministry, Committee on Session Records, and the Committee on Preparation for Ministry. As a member of the Committee on Preparation for Ministry, Tricia has made an effort to visit with the inquirers and candidates for ministry. Further, she served on a Synod Executive Search Committee and as a General Assembly Commissioner. Currently, she serves as the National Organizer of the Covenant Network of Presbyterians and as a Parish Associate at Forest Hill Church, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Tricia models the kind of leadership necessary for the church of 2040, engaging difference with love and a commitment to Christian engagement. She makes it a habit to have lunch with theologians with different perspectives other than her own and freely offers care and practical support to others. She believes in, and works toward, the equity of every man and woman, envisioning a world where everyone stands shoulder to shoulder.
“It is through the power of the spoken word and active hand that we can begin to build, uplift and heal.”

Nannette Banks, President, Alumni/ae Council 2012-2013

“...we can begin to build, uplift and heal.” These are words that Minister Nannette Banks has not only shared, but lived by. Before entering McCormick, Nanette served as a long-time elder at Progressive Community Center the People’s Church, on the South Side of Chicago. Her time at McCormick was personally and professionally transformative in a number of ways, preparing her to serve not only the church of today, but equipping her with a vision for the church of 2040.

Nannette has engaged in ministry and learning around the world including Turkey, Jerusalem, Cairo, London and Barranquilla, Columbia. Her dedication to serving the church of today and tomorrow are evident in her work as the Field Studies Coordinator at McCormick, where she assists in preparing Masters students in their year of experiential education, as well as in her service to the broader McCormick diaspora as the President of McCormick’s Alumni/ae Council. Nannette is also a planning member of the Chautauqua Institutes’ New Clergy Program and is moving through ordination with the United Church of Christ. At McCormick, we give thanks for the ways that Nannette has utilized her gifts to enrich not only this community, but the broader body of Christ’s church.
Sunok Chun Pai,
Board of Trustees Member

Sunok Chun Pai has a rich history of service and a passionate commitment to social and racial justice issues.

A long-time McCormick Theological Seminary Trustee, Mrs. Pai was instrumental in establishing the Reverend Dr. Minsoo Pai Memorial Scholarship in honor of her father-in-law in 1997. Dr. Minsoo Pai was a member of McCormick’s class of 1933 and was widely known for his pioneering work in rural-development ministry in Korea and for activism for the liberation of Korea from Japan. A McCormick memory that is very close to her heart is the fact that she was the only person to serve on both Search Committees that called Rev. Dr. Cynthia Campbell to serve as president.

Mrs. Pai and her husband Dr. Young Pai chose to gift a small portion of land in Korea from Dr. Minsoo Pai’s estate to a Korean university in exchange for funds to endow scholarships at both McCormick and Princeton Theological Seminary. Her support of McCormick reflects her belief in the institution’s “positive and proactive stance in creating transformation programs for changing times.”

A native of Korea, Mrs. Pai distinguished herself with academic success and drive early on, earning a Bachelor of Law degree at Seoul National University and completing requirements for a PhD in political science at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, New Jersey. She was one of just four women to be honored with a graduate scholarship for future leaders of Korea bestowed by the Korean American Foundation, an award that enabled her to come to the United States in 1954.

Mrs. Pai’s successful career in development spans decades as she brought her talents to various social service organizations including Planned Parenthood and the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) coalition in the 1970s, a child advocacy organization in the 1980s and a hospice in the 1990s. She then worked as a fund development and strategic planning consultant in the Kansas City area where she and her husband have lived since 1959. Dr. Pai was an emeritus professor and Dean at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

An active volunteer, Mrs. Pai has served on the boards of numerous community organizations and is highly regarded by the philanthropic community of Kansas City.

A third generation Presbyterian and an elder at Korean United Presbyterian Church in Merriam, Kansas, Mrs. Pai has been active at all levels of the Presbyterian Church USA since 1980. At the General Assembly level she has moderated and served in many groups including the Racial Ethnic Ministries Unit, Task Force on Building Community Among Strangers, General Assembly Council, Special Committee on the Nature of the Church and the Practice of Its Governance, Churchwide Coordinating Team of the Presbyterian Women and National Asian American Presbyterian Council.

Mrs. Pai also served in numerous capacities at the Heartland Presbytery before being called in 2007 to serve as the moderator, the highest elected office in the Heartland Presbytery. She continues to be devoted to a range of causes and is both grateful and energized by her ongoing volunteer activities.
Virginia Boardman, Donor

Born in 1920, Virginia Boardman has lived a life rich with experiences and compassion and has inspired others to do the same. Her support of McCormick Theological Seminary began when she was a student more than 50 years ago and culminated with a major gift in 2010.

Entering high school at the height of the Great Depression, Ms. Boardman said she learned to be content with simple pleasures and enjoyed time outside on her family farm in New Jersey. Ahead of her time in many ways, Ms. Boardman went to a women’s college, completed a chemistry program and began working for DuPont.

Her exposure to the war effort, including the death of her older brother who served as a test pilot, profoundly affected Ms. Boardman, who felt compelled to go back to school and become a nurse. She worked as a public health nurse in a variety of capacities, but still yearned to find a new challenge.

A mission tour in the mountains of West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky proved to be the impetus for another life change. Ms. Boardman found herself so moved by the work of the Presbyterian Church that she looked for a way to become part of those efforts. In 1952 she joined a community nursing outpost in Tselani, Arizona, part of the Ganado Mission which included a hospital and high school for Navajo. Though she spoke no Navajo on her arrival and found herself with no telephone, television and minimal contact with the white world, Ms. Boardman helped establish quality medical care, Christian evangelism and reliable assistance for the many Navajos under her care.

While on the Ganado, Ms. Boardman worked as the Navajos did: long days, seven days a week. She learned as much as she could about their culture and tried to integrate the best of her own background and her new world as she grew as a caregiver.

In 1959 she took a one-year sabbatical to attend McCormick beginning her long-standing relationship with the Seminary. While Ms. Boardman made regular contributions for many years, she decided in 2010 to ensure her legacy with a large gift. “Instead of planning a gift from my estate, I wanted to make sure the funds were available to support the important work of McCormick,” she said.

When the Public Health Service took over the medical needs at Ganado, Ms. Boardman ultimately left the mission and returned to Western Reserve University (now Case Western Reserve University) where she earned a Master’s of Science in Nursing. Her thirst for knowledge continued and she completed her doctorate in social epidemiology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and had a fulfilling teaching career.

Ms. Boardman served as a deacon, elder and Sunday School teacher at the Cape May Presbyterian Church and continues to share of herself with philanthropic contributions to many organizations close to her heart. Her legacy inspires those around her.
Financials

Financial Update
McCormick responded aggressively to address the financial crisis and has made important operating and structural changes that have materially reduced our expenses and our long-term exposure to capital costs associated with real estate.

The actions taken over the last three years illustrate McCormick’s resolve to use this time of transition and change to transform, in discernible ways, not just McCormick, but theological education, the church, and our world. The world has changed, and so has McCormick. But we are not finished.

The Board of Trustees has made clear that McCormick must: 1) continue to reduce expenses that do not measurably contribute to our mission; 2) evaluate and execute the sale or sale/leaseback of certain real estate assets and apply the proceeds of any sale to the paying down of long-term debt; 3) increase annual giving and grant support; and 4) increase net tuition. McCormick has made progress in each of these endeavors and we are fully committed to continuing that progress.

Total adjusted expenses for FY 11-12 were $8.162 million versus $7.892 in the prior year. The slight increase in total adjusted expenses, not including capital, was primarily the result of certain one-time, non-recurring expenses related to the presidential transition.

The total adjusted expenses for FY 11-12 including capital were $8.293 million versus $8.402 million the prior year, a decrease of $109,000. The invested funds draw was $6.164 million, up $271,000, or approximately one percent from the prior year. Our spending rate increased from 6.54 percent to 7.77 percent due, in large part, to the full impact of the recession and market downturn on our 12-quarter rolling average.

Real Estate Update

1. Sale of our Kimbark Residential Property.

Over the last several years, McCormick received unsolicited offers to purchase one or both of our residential real estate properties. With the board's approval, and the oversight of the board's finance and executive committees, we engaged in negotiations to sell and leaseback for a period of three years one of our residential properties located at 5535-39 Kimbark Avenue in Chicago’s Hyde Park neighborhood (the “Kimbark Property”). The sale of the Kimbark Property closed on October 18, 2011.

This is an important step toward achieving a sustainable fiscal plan. The sale of the Kimbark Property: 1) eliminates more than $200,000 in planned capital expenditures over the next five years; 2) allows us to pay down $1.925 million of tax-exempt debt; 3) reduces debt service expenses; and 4) after the first year of the lease-back, reduces maintenance staff expenses and outside property management fees.

The sale is also in alignment with McCormick’s vision for the future of theological education. We are an urban seminary, and our very diverse student population is increasingly: 1) older; 2) bi-vocational; 3) local; and 4) part-time. When coupled with planned reductions in the number of new Masters-level students, we believe that demand for Seminary-owned and operated housing will continue to decline.

2. Status of our Administration Building.

McCormick is not, at this time, actively marketing its administration building and its interest in contiguous above and below ground parking. The administration building is located at 5460 S. University Avenue in the Hyde Park neighborhood of Chicago. The building is 9 years old and contains approximately 43,000 square feet of office, classroom, meeting, and common area space. McCormick also owns approximately 85 underground and 12 above ground parking spaces. Although several qualified parties have toured the facility, to date, McCormick has not received any bona fide offers for the building. However, given the building’s location adjacent to the University of Chicago, the quality of the structure, and contiguous parking, McCormick anticipates that interest will increase as the overall economy continues to improve.
Dear Friends,

It has been an amazing journey these past eight months. McCormick feels so much like home, it’s as if I’ve always been here. In the church of my childhood, McCormick students were my pastors and McCormick faculty were there to preside over our sacraments. More recently, I was drawn by Dr. Yamada’s bold new vision for the futures of theological education.

While our future is not without challenges, overcoming them makes our work here together special, important and compelling. McCormick continues its legacy as a pioneer institution, preparing church leaders for the 21st century and beyond. I believe God is up to something good at McCormick!

I am overwhelmed with gratitude for the entire McCormick community. The students, faculty, staff, alumni, board members have been terrifically helpful and welcoming to me. I am especially grateful to Sam Evans for his leadership in Seminary Relations and Development and for his dedication to my successful transition into this role. Each day, I am humbled and inspired by the wonder, faith and openness of our students; the academic excellence and deep commitment of our faculty; the warm and loving hospitality of our staff and the passion and visionary leadership of our President, the administration, and Board of Trustees.

The transformational experiences described in the profiles in this report are possible only because of the generous support of the McCormick community. With today’s challenges of unemployment, underemployment and diminished retirement incomes, I am humbled that so many faithful friends continue to give, especially when it is a real sacrifice. The donor honor roll is a celebration of all of you who have supported McCormick with a financial gift within the past two fiscal years. I am blessed and grateful for the ongoing generosity of this community. Thank you!

It will take all of us giving together for McCormick to advance its new model of theological education. If you have made a gift to McCormick I thank you and want you to know how important you are to us. Even if you have not given, you too, are important to us, and I hope you are inspired to make a gift and join with us in this way.

I look forward to getting to know more of you and to learn your stories, as well. I am honored to join you as we boldly advance the good work and good name of McCormick Theological Seminary into the future and share this adventure together.

Faithfully,

Lisa M. Radetski, CFRE
